

Hannah Schirmmacher

OHE Fellow

hschirmmacher@ohe.org

ABOUT

Hannah joined OHE in September 2020 as an OHE Fellow after completing a MSc in Development Economics at the University of Sussex. Her dissertation focused on investigating the effect of different government responses on COVID-19 deaths. Hannah has previously obtained a BSc in Economics from the University of Exeter and is currently undertaking an MSc in Health Economics at City, University of London. She gained exposure to research and public policy through a summer internship at the Institute of Economic Affairs.

EXPERIENCE

OHE Fellow

Office of Health Economics (Present – 2020)

Summer Intern

Institute of Economic Affairs (2018 – 2018)

EDUCATION

MSc Health Economics (in progress)

City, University of London

MSc Development Economics

University of Sussex

BSc Economics

University of Exeter